Activity and results

In total, revenue for the third quarter amounted to €33,018. This brings the revenue for the first nine months of 2017 to €91,663, which is fully in line with the Company's expectations.

Most of the revenues generated by the Company during this period come from services that Nanobiotix crossed-charged to its partners as per its operational activities.

In September, Nanobiotix announced its intention to start its first clinical trial with NBTXR3 in combination with immune checkpoint inhibitors in the U.S., with a multi-arm trial targeting a sub-population of advanced lung, and head and neck cancer patients. The medium-term objective is to transform non-responders into checkpoint inhibitor responders while improving patients' benefits. The trial aims to evaluate the ability of NBTXR3 to generate an abscopal effect.

This trial also aims to expand the potential for NBTXR3, including using it to treat recurrent or metastatic disease. The trial would begin by combining NBTXR3 with any approved checkpoint inhibitors in head and neck squamous cell carcinoma or non-small cell lung cancer.
